CAUTION - EXTERNAL:

To the Court:

I wrote an email to the Court regarding the above referenced case that was published to the docket today. In it, I provide my mobile phone number and email address. Attached to my letter is my notice of opt out. That notice required certain personal contact information, namely my wife's phone number and home address. If allowed, I would appreciate that information be redacted as well.

It is filed as "Document 166".

I'm writing to request that the personal information that is not required by the court be redacted.

Rather than include my phone number inside this message, please contact me at this email address if you need anything further from me.

Thank you for your time and for your attention.

Sincerely,

Robert Agnich

CAUTION - EXTERNAL:

To the Court:

My wife (Tory Nims) and I are a "harmed party" to the above referenced case. I am not an attorney. In no small part because, as a member of the class, I was unable to get out then lawyer (Mr. Kim of Rosen Firm) to return my emails or call over a three week period, we were forced to make an "executive decision" in order to meet the opt out filing deadline without the benefit of formal legal advice from our own attorney. We made a decision as best as we were able given uncertain facts and circumstances to opt out of the class.

My understanding is that, as one who is no longer a member of the class, I do not have standing to object. However, I do have input that is not reflected in current filings that I believe valuable to the class. I believe that even to file an Amicus brief, I need to be an attorney admitted by the court

So, is there a way for me to file a short brief/letter/input that will be recognized by the Court? I believe that my input will benefit the class.

Thank you in advance. I very much appreciate your help. I can be reached here, at my work address (ragnich@agnich.com), or on my mobile at [REDACTED].

Sincerely,

Robert Agnich
